

The Guild of Aviation Artists

Rule Book including Byelaws

January 2014

Explanatory Notes (not forming part of the Rules or the Byelaws)

The Guild of Aviation Artists was established in 1971 as a Specially Authorised Society pursuant to the Friendly Societies Acts 1896 to 1968. Its Rules were based on the standard rules for such societies as provided by the Registrar of Friendly Societies at the time.

Numerous incremental changes to the Rules (and the Guild's associated Byelaws) were made over the ensuing years to reflect the changes in the way the Guild conducted its business. However in 2010 it became apparent that these changes to the Rules and Byelaws had not kept pace with the more recent developments in the Guild's management processes and it was decided that a wholesale review of the Rules and Byelaws was necessary.

This review was undertaken by the Executive Committee and accordingly, at a Special General Meeting held in March 2012 the amendments to the Rules and Byelaws proposed by the Executive Committee in order to reflect Guild practices were approved by the voting members. Further amendments to Rules 20, 24 and 28 responding to changed auditing procedures and minor procedural inconsistencies were subsequently approved at the 2013 AGM. All these amendments to the Rules were duly registered by the Financial Services Authority or its successor, the Financial Conduct Authority.

By way of clarification, the Byelaws do not form part of the Rules as registered with the FCA. The Byelaws may therefore be amended from time to time by the voting members as they so decide, provided such amendments do not conflict with or affect the Rules registered with the FCA. All amendments to the Rules must be registered with the FCA before they can take effect.

This Rule Book incorporating the Byelaws has therefore been produced to reflect the approved and registered Rules and approved Byelaws as at January 2014. It will be updated from time to time to include any further changes that are approved by the voting members and (in the case of the Rules) registered by the Financial Conduct Authority or its successors. These will be recorded in the Schedule of Post-January 2104 Amendments at the end of the Rulebook.
